'The most radical new university to open in decades.' - The Times

At LIS, we believe that answers to the world's most complex problems won't come from a single subject or specialism – that we need to bring together the arts, sciences and humanities.

That's why we teach undergraduates, postgraduates and professionals how to solve complex, real-world problems by applying knowledge and skills from a range of disciplines.

But the dots won't connect themselves. That's where you come in.
